RECOMMENDATION

1. The law enforcement agencies with Intelligence Community support and assistance, training programs to indoctrinate personnel on the sensitivities of intelligence sources and methods, particularly when cleared for SCI, and instruct as to properly identifying, handling, and using classified intelligence to assure protection.

CONCERN

2. Present communication and data systems within the law enforcement agencies are not secure and cannot accommodate any classified intelligence unless major physical security improvements are made.

RECOMMENDATION

2. The Intelligence Community support the major physical security measures being taken or planned by LEAs to securely disseminate and store classified information.

CONCERN

3. There is a proliferation of requests for SCI clearances for law enforcement personnel, including prosecutors, which fail to indicate any impelling "need to know." The requests indicate a lack of understanding as to the nature and sensitivities of the information being requested.

RECOMMENDATION

3. Requests for SCI clearances for law enforcement personnel, through whatever channels, must be carefully reviewed and strictly evaluated as "need to know." Any such clearances issued are to be carefully monitored under appropriate procedures to assure the existence of a continuous need.

CONCERN

4. Law enforcement agencies may utilize classified intelligence in their operations in such a manner as to jeopardize intelligence sources and methods.

RECOMMENDATION

4. a. Intelligence Community agencies should disseminate intelligence at the lowest level of classification necessary to meet law enforcement requirements.

b. Sensitive sources and methods should not be disclosed except when absolutely necessary and only within established channels.

c. Guidelines for sanitization and other procedures for dissemination and use of intelligence be issued for Intelligence Community agencies to process LEA requirements.

d. A representative of the Intelligence Community be assigned to joint law enforcement /intelligence facilities, such as NNBIS, to assure the proper utilization of intelligence in accordance with security requirements. Such

5. [redacted]
[redacted] there is still confusion as what constitutes "wholly law enforcement" information and what law enforcement agencies may or may not classify. This raises concerns in those instances where Intelligence Community interests are affected and classification would provide added protection both to the law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

RECOMMENDATION

5. The Intelligence Community [redacted]
[redacted] promote a better understanding and proper utilization of the classification system by law enforcement agencies. Such support serves the interests of both the intelligence and law enforcement agencies by identifying those matters of national interest which require protection.

enforcement representatives reflected those concerns and was intended to solicit comments for discussion at the meeting.
